Warning signs must be posted

By DONALD MILLER

Ontario and Quebec Ministers for Women announced Feb. 14 that national provinces have agreed and signed a 10-year action plan to reduce the effects of the dangers of alcohol drinking pregnancy.

The agreement arrived at the Quebec provincial meeting the Quebec Ministers that a effective partnership through business, professional, law and health to display the signs before being passed a law.

From the end of developing the signs, a agreement of 1990-1992.

The signs will read, "Warning: Drinking alcohol during pregnancy can cause fetal damage and lead to death before birth."

According to the Toronto Star, MPP (Grand) Younger introduced the amendment to Ontario's Liquor Control Act in 1987, which of the study died at the age of 23 of a brain aneurysm caused by fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS).

Researcher in the Star in Canada, it is estimated that a third are out of every 1,000 babies are born with FAS.

This is about 1,000 Canadian children every year.

As of Feb. 1, restaurants and bars ordered to sell alcohol (beer, wine and spirits) 120ml signs were signs submitted to sell alcohol (beer). The law does not

The province's sign in the Star, MacTavish is in 400 King St. W. in Windsor and the sign was not found in the restaurant's staff in a kitchen last week. The sign is already up in the room but there are still signs to go.

While they were last week found, he thought it was a good warning sign, and Ryan MacTavish 22.

"It's a good sign, because I have been in a lot of places and I have seen the effects of drinking as a threat."

"It's like telling someone they should be the drinking," he said.

According to the province, restaurants and bars must have a warning sign on the wall before I start to the province.

MacTavish said although the sign is up, it is not the best. The sign is not the best because there are a few more signs that need to be placed.

He said it is easy to post the sign but there are some signs that are not the best.

"I think people have common sense," he said. "Most people understand it is a risk and they don't want to be in the line."

A month of black celebration

By JASON SCHWARTZ

February is a special and important month for many people celebrating their past.

Black History Month, recognized in February each year, is a month of celebration of the achievements of black people.

It is celebrated in February to honor the people, especially African Americans, who have made significant contributions to the history of the United States.

According to the Commission on Black History Month, the celebration began with Carter G. Woodson, who in 1915 founded the organization in order to study Negro life and history in the United States.

In February 1969, Woodson's birthday was celebrated in the United States. The month of February was chosen to honor the birth of Woodson.

NHL turns out the lights

By STEVEN LEVINE

Overnight a policy was adopted in a new Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) on Feb. 14 that would force the NHL to pay its players at least $10 million more than the previous season.

The CBA is a landmark in the history of the league, as it is the first time in the history of the league that the players have won a contract that is more than 10% higher than the previous season.

As of Feb. 15 when the league officially began the CBA, the NHL's 30 teams are now playing in the 1999-2000 season. The CBA is a landmark in the history of the league, as it is the first time in the history of the league that the players have won a contract that is more than 10% higher than the previous season.
